Explanations

Reference: Public disclosure on 05/02/2023.

The first civil case brought against our Bank in the United States on March 27, 2020 by a group of plaintiffs to satisfy their judgements (the Owens case) had been dismissed first by the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York (the District Court) and then the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit (the Second Circuit) on grounds of forum non conveniens, upon which the plaintiffs appealed with the U.S. Supreme Court on August 30, 2023.

The U.S. Supreme Court considered the appeal on January 5, 2024, and announced its decision to refuse to grant the plaintiff's appeal on January 8, 2024. Consequently, the Owens case brought against our Bank on March 27, 2020 has been conclusively dismissed. We would like to congratulate our Bank, investors, customers and employees on the decision.

The legal proceedings for the second civil case brought on July 26, 2023 for satisfaction of judgements (the Hughes case) as well as the criminal case dated October 15, 2019 are currently ongoing.

For the information of the public and investors.
