Explanations

Our Company has been awarded the ReMade certification for three polyester polyols and two rigid polyurethane foam systems within its product portfolio for the sandwich panel industry.

As part of the assessments conducted by the independent certification body ICMQ, the origin and supply-chain traceability of post-consumer recycled PET inputs used in the products, production records, and the calculation methodology based on mass balance principles were reviewed. The recycled content ratios of the final products covered by the certification were independently verified.

The certified products contribute to supporting sandwich panel manufacturers in Europe in their compliance with the Minimum Environmental Criteria (Criteri Ambientali Minimi – CAM) and to the further development of our Company's sustainable product portfolio.

In this context, the first commercial shipment of the certified products has been made to a sandwich panel manufacturer operating in Europe.

Respectfully announced to the public.
