Annex 4:

POLISAN HOLDING A.Ş.
REMUNERATION POLICY FOR MEMBERS OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS AND
EXECUTIVES WITH ADMINISTRATIVE RESPONSIBILITY

This policy defines the remuneration system and practices for members of the Board of Directors and senior executives with administrative responsibility within the framework of the provisions of the Turkish Commercial Code, capital markets legislation, tax regulations, other relevant legal legislation, and the Company's Articles of Association.

The purpose of this remuneration policy is to attract and retain high-caliber executives and to encourage them to demonstrate their potential through sustained high motivation, commitment, and performance over the long term.

1) Members of the Board of Directors

The principles of remuneration for members of the Board of Directors, including independent members, are subject to the Corporate Governance Principles of the Capital Markets Board (CMB) and other relevant legislation.

Whether remuneration will be paid to Board Members and, if so, the amount per member, is decided by the General Assembly. While determining remuneration levels, the General Assembly may consider factors such as whether the member holds executive duties, their role in decision-making, their required knowledge, skills, competencies, and experience level, the time they dedicate, incurred costs, and comparisons with board remuneration levels in peer companies in the sector. Based on these evaluations, the General Assembly may differentiate among members or decide not to remunerate certain members.

It is essential that the remuneration of independent board members is at a level that preserves their independence. Payment plans based on profit sharing, share options, or company performance cannot be applied. The remuneration for Board Members should align with the Company's ethical values, internal balance, and strategic goals, and should not be linked solely to short-term performance indicators such as profit or income.

The Company may not grant loans to any Board Member, provide credit, extend credit through third parties under the name of personal loans, or offer guarantees such as sureties in their favor.

Expenses incurred by Board Members due to their contributions to the Company (e.g., transportation, accommodation, private health insurance, life insurance, vehicle, corporate mobile phone and line, etc.) may be covered by the Company.

2) Executives with Administrative Responsibility

The remuneration of executives with administrative responsibility working at Polisan Holding and its Group companies is reviewed at least once a year, taking into consideration the role level, market salary research, economic indicators, internal salary balance, and the individual's performance. At year-end, salaries are determined based on macroeconomic data in the industry, role responsibilities, competencies, international standards, and legal requirements, aiming to ensure fairness, objectivity, competitiveness, and a structure that rewards high performance.

The remuneration system across the Company is managed based on the following criteria:

- National macroeconomic conditions and inflation rate
- Salary benchmarks resulting from sector analyses
- The Company's Job Family Model and Job Levels
- The Company's financial performance
- Individual performance

Executives' remuneration consists of two components: fixed salary and performance-based compensation.

Fixed Salary Payments: These are regular monthly cash payments made to executives. The fixed salary is determined considering the prevailing market rates, the Company's size, values related to diversity and inclusion, internal balance, strategic goals, macroeconomic indicators, international standards, and the qualifications, roles, and responsibilities of the executives. Fixed salaries should not be linked solely to short-term performance such as profit or income. Fixed salaries are reviewed annually based on the recommendations of the Corporate Governance Committee and the decision of the Board of Directors.

Performance-Based Compensation: Annual bonus payments may be granted based on the Company's general and financial targets, ESG (Environmental, Social, and Governance) criteria, and individual performance levels, with the recommendations of the Human Resources Directorate and the CEO, and subject to the Board of Directors' approval. These payments are determined based on a defined bonus base and Company performance components.

The bonus base is calculated by considering the responsibilities and workload of the executive's position. It is reviewed annually based on market practices and updated when necessary.

Company performance is measured by the degree to which annual targets assigned to the Company—and therefore to the executives—are met. In defining these targets, sustainability of success is also taken into consideration.

In addition to fixed salary and performance-based compensation, other tangible and intangible benefits may be provided, including but not limited to training, travel allowances, marriage, birth, and bereavement leave, company car, fuel allowance, corporate mobile phone and line, professional liability insurance, private health insurance, and life insurance.

The Company may not grant loans to executives with administrative responsibility, provide credit, extend or improve the terms of any existing loans or credits, extend credit via third parties under the name of personal loans, or offer guarantees such as sureties in their favor.

All elements of remuneration are personal and confidential, and access is limited to the employee, their managers, and the Company's Human Resources Directorate. Employees are expected to maintain confidentiality and refrain from sharing this information with third parties or other Company employees.

The total amount of remuneration and similar benefits paid to executives with administrative responsibility during the year is cumulatively reported in the footnotes of the quarterly financial statements.

The Board of Directors is responsible for implementing, developing, and monitoring this Remuneration Policy.

This Remuneration Policy was approved by the Board of Directors with its resolution dated 26/03/2025 and numbered 2025/10. It will be presented to shareholders as a separate agenda item at the General Assembly and disclosed to the public via the Company's corporate website.

Any amendments to this Remuneration Policy will be subject to Board approval, presented to shareholders at the relevant fiscal year's General Assembly meeting, and disclosed on the Company's website.
